The Iron Claw

"THE SPOTTED WARNING"

In The Spotted Warning, the next episode of the Iron Claw, Enoch Golden receives a letter saying that unless he hands over the paper that Legar is after, his daughter Margery will become a victim of the spotted warning. Davy, his secretary, urges Mr. Golden to comply with the request, but the latter refuses and orders Margery to proceed at once to her grandmother's. The chauffeur has orders not to stop for anyone, and to go at full speed. But when chance of the Iron Claw in Golden's home sends word of his plans to the chief, and Legar makes ready to capture the girl. The machine in which he goes to meet her crashes into Margery's car and is wrecked. The Laughing Mask, following in his footsteps, takes up the girl, and he takes her to the home of her mother. Golden receives word that his daughter has fallen into Legar's hands and that she will be restored at 10 o'clock, if he hands over the map. He goes to the appointed place, the very top of a high building, and is handing over the paper, when Davy arrives in an aeroplane. A terrific struggle between Davy and the bench ensues, and the map falls unnoticed to the street many feet below. The man also falls and is killed.

The serial deals with the story of Enoch Golden, a rich planter, who tries his wife in a compromising situation with Jules Legar. The latter is bribed and tortured, and swears vengeance. Accordingly, he floods the plantation and kidnaps the baby daughter of Golden. She is reared to young womanhood and is then sent to Gotham, a denizen of the underworld. Her life there and the arrival of the Laughing Mask, the nemesis of evil-doers, makes a decidedly interesting narrative and entertaining picture.

"THE MADCAP" ON WEDNESDAY

Director William C. Dowlan's filmization of George Gibb's story "The Madcap" will be presented at the Bijou on Wednesday next. In this picture Elora Parker DeHaven, who appeared Next in the Wrong Door and The Touch of Fortune is featured.

Miss De Haven is supported by Richard Sterling and Edra Doria. The story tells five reels of thrills. The drive is endowed with everything in life her heart could wish for but happiness. To find this she seeks every shade of danger that can be imagined. Director Dowlan has boiled down the story to five reels of thrills. The picture will be presented under the Red Feather brand of the Universal Company.

School Notes

The girls of the High school and Grade VIII have organized an Athletic and Sports association.

The annual visit of the schools to the hospital will take place on Friday afternoon of this week. The visit last year was a decidedly financial benefit, saving the Hospital Board a good many dollars.

The school gardens are a marked success this year, and a large share of the vegetables will be given to the Hospital. Some 160 or more jars of fruit were given to the Hospital last year, and probably it can be made up to 300 this time, and no one family will miss the gift. Any is useful to the hospital, butter, eggs potatoes, apples, etc. The parents will no doubt be as generous as possible. Those having autos are invited again this year to transport the children at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon of this week.

Letter From Front

We are enabled to publish this week a letter from Waldo Morris, which was received a few days ago, by a friend in the city. He appears to be doing his share in the great conflict like a veteran soldier, and claims to belong to one of the best battalions at the front. A portion of the letter follows:

Somewhere in Belgium,
August 1, 1916

Dear Sir:

Just a line or two to let you know that I am alive and well. You no doubt would be surprised to hear of the 63rd going over to France so soon, but we are all here now split up in about six different battalions. I myself am in the 7th Batt, First British Columbias, which you have heard so much about, and I am well pleased with both officers and men, as they have mostly all had considerable experience in the trenches prior to our coming to reinforce the battalion. Over here at the present time they hold the record for valor and good behaviour. I am sorry to say that several of our 63rd boys have paid the supreme sacrifice, but they all did so willingly and like men. I am ready to follow if the time comes as I came over not only for King and Country but for the protection of our dear ones left behind and also those who cannot come through no fault of their own. You will have heard by now about Howard being wounded. He is in a hospital in London. I am not prepared to say how bad he is. I have not had any definite word yet but I think his case is favorable. We are at the present out in rest camp, which is a fine place. I might say that I have had a good initiation in warfare now myself. You are aware that we cannot tell anything about our movements, more so now that things are moving here at the front as they have this last while. It is only right that they should be strict on that point as there are a lot of people very loose in their correspondence—which no doubt gives information away lots of times. Things are going on well in our favor here, and we are well looked after, and well fed. Things are good in every respect. I cannot tell you where we are any more than we are in Belgium. You know yourself where the Canadians are there and you get the news of what is being done as soon as we do here. Well, I might just say that the most of the Wetaskiwin boys are close to one another here and they send there best regards to all of you I get the papers from home. They are very careful of our mail here, it is delivered to us wherever we are—right to us in the trenches. The boys are well supplied with smokes now, in fact, you hardly hear a complaint Well, I hope the day will soon come as I expect it will that I may be with you all again. Give my best regard to all lodge members and also all church members. When we are in rest camp Sunday we always have our church service, which is largely attended. Dr. Dixon is some where close to us, but have not seen him yet. I have been inoculated this morning so do not feel much like writing, so you will have to excuse this letter. Hoping to hear from you soon, and that this finds you and all the family real well, I will now close with best regards and good wishes to all my friends. I remain as ever, your sincere friend,

Pte. W. J. W. Morris.

PHOTOGRAPHER IS HERO OF AVIATORS

Nevertheless, it is not the scope of personal successes in combat which give the measure of heroism in air service in war. Personally, if there were a scale of merit, I should put the aerial photographers first, writes an English expert. Consider their task. Very often they are called upon to act at the very crisis of an engagement, when, to their great danger, they will be "the eyes ure of neighbor ng eyes." They have one set little piece of ground over which to work, and they must fly moderately low, taking the summit of risk all the time. Isselmann has his fellows can dive home if they will with a bunch of fairy tales, with consequences at to the fillet of their bullets and the fate of the enemy.

No vagueness is left to the photographer. He hurries home, his plate is developed, and he knows before the sun is high whether he is going to receive "a bouquet or a punch" Generally he gets the bouquet, but it does not come from the members of a large house. His photographs are, of course, private and confidential, and his work is in a sense journeyman's work, very sound, but not at all spectacular.

On behalf of our a'r photographers it should be sat down publicly to their credit that they are supreme. Undoubtedly and in the belief of specialists they take the best photograph yet seen. But if any better photographs have been made than those brought back soon after dawn in the flights at St. Eloi and the Holenzollern Redoubt, they must be good indeed.

The mark of the flying of the British airmen as contrasted with the German has been the readiness on due occasion to fly low. One of the most courageous enterprises was the patrol, the chase of one of our reconnaissance machines over the German lines at so low an altitude that the enemy's "Archies" did not cease fire till their ammunition was exhausted. In two of the most heroic deeds of the war our men came down to within two hundred feet of their target and made sure of the bulls-eye. This low flying is more often than may be thought a necessity if any aggressive flying is to be undertaken at all. On many comparatively fine days the clouds will come down to levels considerably below 1,000 feet, and no man can fly for a long space within clouds. Even a bird will lose direction in a mist, and if the airman has the advantage over the bird in his possession of a compass, he has much more trouble than the bird in discovering whether he is flying upwards or downwards.

on a cut or skin injury becoming infected by disease germs of which the air is full! Use Zam-Buk immediately an injury is sustained, and you will have no further trouble. Zam-Buk is a powerful germ-destroyer, as well as a powerful healer, and many a case of blood-poisoning could have been avoided had the victim only taken the precaution to use Zam-Buk at first.

Mr. J. F. Warren, of Renfrew, Ont., writes: "I cut the palm of my hand badly with a rusty knife, and as I was some distance from home I could not get it properly attended to, and my hand quickly became stiff and swollen. Immediately I reached home I washed the wound with hot water and Zam-Buk Soap, and then applied Zam-Buk. This soothing balm soon ended the pain, gradually the swelling disappeared, and soon the cut was quite healed."

SEVERAL LOSE LIVES WHEN BIG QUEBEC BRIDGE FALLS

Quebec, Sept. 11.—Twenty minutes after the Dominion parliamentary party which went out this morning on the steamer Rapids King to see the laying of the Quebec bridge left the bridge site satisfied that the national undertaking was a success, the centre span of the bridge buckled and collapsed into the river, carrying the workmen employed in construction down with it.

First reports gave the number of dead at 90, but at noon, the St. Law rence Bridge Company, contractors' for the structure, announced that nine men had been killed. Twenty injured have been brought here, and five bodies have been recovered.

The disaster was seen by thousands of people on board and on the shore who had assembled to witness the completion of the great bridge. The floating in of the span and the first lifts of the 5,000 ton structure had been carried out in record time, and it was with a shout which was taken up and thousands were cheering to acclaim the rapid progress of the enterprise, that the accident took place. As workmen on the summit of the bridge were waving in response to the applause, the steelwork of the span was seen to bend and break. The crowds gazed awestruck as the great steel network broke and dived downward, carrying with it a small portion of the south cantilever arm.

Four or five men at work on the top of the span were hurled many feet into the river. The rest were carried down. The fleet of launches and tugs gathered below the bridge site came swiftly to the rescue but only a few could be saved.

The cause of the accident has not been officially stated. Scores of the spectators, who described the scene agree that the failure of one of the hydraulic jacks was responsible. The sideways strain became too great and the steel gave way.

The collapse of the Quebec bridge today is the second great disaster which has befallen the structure. It was on August 29, 1907, shortly before six p.m., when the workmen were preparing to leave, that the big span which stretched out 800 feet from theshore, with no supports but the piers from the shore, crashed down without warning into the river channel, carrying over 100 workmen with it. Of these 84 were killed or drowned, 30 of whom were Indians residents of villages located close to where the work was going on.

It was one of the worst bridge disasters of the time. The cause was the giving way of the anchor pier on the south side, and the noise of the fall was heard as far as Quebec city, several miles away. The loss to the contractors, when this part of the structure on the south side gave way, was placed at two million dollars.

The contract for the old bridge was let in 1900, in which year work was started. The contract price was $3,000,000, and the center span was to be eighteen hundred feet in length. It was the largest cantilever structure in the world, beating out the famous Forth bridge by 90 feet. The contract for the present bridge was let by Hon. George P. Graham, when minister of public works in the Laurier cabinet. Mr Graham announced in parliament at the time that the engineers had drawn up plans for the reconstruction of the bridge, allowinb for a height of 150 feet above high tide and 600 clear in the center. This was much higher than the old bridge

The plans for the bridge provided for a channel span longer than that of any existing today anywhere. Its contemplated length from shore to shore was 3,239 feet, with a distance of 1800 feet between anchor buttresses. Provision was made for two railroad tracks, two street car tracks and two roads. It was to be used by the following railroads: Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk, Quebec Central, Intercolonial, Quebec and Lake St. John, Quebec and Saguenay, Canadian Northern and Delaware and Hudson.

SHEEP AND SWINE SALE

The auction sale of sheep and swine to be conducted by the Alberta Provincial Sheep and Swine Breeders' Associations, Ltd., in the stock pavilion on the Edmonton exhibition grounds, promises to be very successful.

The secretary has heard from a large number of breeders who are anxious to introduce new blood into their herds and flocks, and the present condition of the sheep and swine industry has fully justified the holding of the sale.

The committee of management are only accepting offers of pure bred swine, but for the sheep sale a number of grade ewes will be accepted.

After the entries close, on Tuesday, September 26, the committee of management will issue a catalogue, it is expected about October 2.

The associations are undertaking to pay one-half the transportation charges on livestock, both incoming and outgoing, and efforts are now being made to secure reduced passger rates for this event.

The secretary, W. J. Stark, Edmonton, will forward full particulars of this sale on receipt of a postal card from anyone who wishes entry forms or catalogues.

PRESERVING EGGS FOR WINTER'S USE

Eggs preserved in a water-glass solution will keep almost perfectly for several months. They will poach nearly as well as fresh eggs though the taste is a trifle more flat after long storage. These are the conclusions of the Missouri College of Agriculture after a careful investigation of various methods of storing eggs for winter use.

Water-glass is purchased in liquid form. Druggists commonly retail it. And one quart is enough to preserve twenty dozen eggs. For this number a five gallon stone or earthenware crock is the most satisfactory receptacle. Heat ten quarts of water to the boiling point and allow to cool. Then pour the water into the crock, add one quart of water glass, and mix the two. Place the eggs in the water-glass solution each day as soon as they are laid. Use only naturally clean, not washed, fresh eggs and when the crock is filled to within a couple of inches of the top of the solution, cover and store in a cool dry place until use.

By this method eggs may be stored during spring and summer when they are relatively cheap and productive. Farmer and townsman alike may save many dollars by this method of cheap storage of eggs. It is of the greatest importance that the eggs should be absolutely fresh. Water-glass will not make bad eggs good, but will keep good eggs from becoming bad.

LOSSES OF LIFE AND TREASURE GAINS IN TERRITORY, PRESENT FORCES AND THE EXTENT OF FRONT

Estimates of the casualties based on official data show that the second year of the war has cost more than three million lives and inflicted wounds on more than six millions.

Estimates for the first year ranged between the German report of two and a half million slain and more than five million wounded, and Beach Thomas' estimate of five million killed and seven million wounded.

Up to the period of the present great offensives the British had lost in killed or totally incapacitated 358 138 and 946,946 in prisoners; Germany respectively, 464,852 and 127,768; the French, according to Deputy Languet, 900,000 and 300,000. German reports of Russian casualties amounted to three million of whom one million were prisoners, Austria is now trying to have her men up to sixty years of age enrolled.

THE SILVER LINING

To one who's constituted right, some solace always is in sight, what ever troubles life may bring; he'll find excuse to smile and sing. Jim Wilkins had a patch of beans and artichokes and other greens, the finest in the countryside; in it he took an honest pride. One night Si Penny backer's cow, which has a low, resisting brow, went bulging into Wilkins' yard, when no night watchman was on guard. At dawn, when Jim arose, and through the window pushed his nose, to gaze upon his garden sass, he found but ruin there, alas! I thought to hear him rant and swear, and see him paw and tear his hair, but he surveyed with manful grin, the wreckage that the place was in. "How thankful I should be said he, "she didn't eat my cherry tree! She spared the clothesline and the pump; why should I have a doleful hump? I'm thankful too, 'twas a cow; If it had been a warthog, now, or if some big rhinoceross has come and put this stunt across, the landscape would not be here, so watch me smile from ear to ear." I put him in a padded cell, where he is doing very well.—Walt Mason.

ORIGIN OF MATCHES

Should the price of matches rise, the ordinary man will be surprised. To him matches are quite inconsiderable, since he thinks of them just by the box, so often obtained for nothing—or next to it. But it was less than a century ago that one John Walker, an apothecary of England, found the release of the smoker from the tinder box or the live coal in the grate. It was an accidental spilling of a solution that took fire which gave him the hint, and not long afterwards, in 1837, he placed on the market his box of matches, containing 50, at 25 cents. It was not long before the "box of matches fell to a cent—and finally was given away to the purchaser of tobacco.

REASONABLE

Rivers had just got home, and was stumbling over things in the dark hall.

"What are you growling about, dear? called out Mrs. Rivers from the door above.

"I am growling," he answered in the deepest bass voice, "to drown the barking of my shins."

TO THE KAISER

Dost thou, O War Lord, dare for hellish greed,
The onward march of freedom to impede?
Demented Sir, remember that you have
To reckon with the Briton, Gaul and Slav.

For nearly half a century you have planned
The destiny of Europe to command.
Heaven and earth you fain would commandeer,
And thought your project ripe, your pathway clear.'

You've trampled honor under foot and struck
At Belgium, land of honor, grit and pluck,
That little people, gallant, brave and leal
Proved to be foemen worthy of your steel.

Like Haman, who, a lofty gallows built,
To hang a rival, innocent of guilt,
You, too, would have your rivals chained and ganged,
Reflect, Haman, not Mordecai, was

God's messenger, to rule the world, you say,
His instrument to rob, assault and slay,
In politics, to play the Villain's role
Traitor, may God have mercy on your soul.

God's instrument, I grant, as Judas was,
The Villain in redemption's plan alas
He to, for hellish greed, betrayed his Lord,
Contempt and suicide was his reward.

You revel in dishonor, carnage, gore
While the avenging hosts are at your door,
While innocents before your door.
The hand of God is writing on the wall.

J. P. Ross.

WINTER WILL BE MILDEST IN YEARS, SAY INDIANS

Indians assert that the coming winter will be one of the mildest in recent years. They base their assertions on the following signs:

The oak trees have no acorns.
Squirrels are seldom seen.
Muskrats have not started to build
Furbearing animals have thin coats
Bark on poplar trees is loose.

There are some other signs they go by for their assertion that the winter will be mild and short. They are seldom wrong.

DIARRHOEA

Was Caused By Change of Diet, Etc.

Diarrhoea arises from many causes such as, change of diet, change of water, change of climate, catching cold, the eating of unripe fruits, or anything that will cause or induce an excess of bile.

On the first sign of any looseness of the bowels it should not be neglected, but should be looked after immediately, for if not diarrhoea, dysentery or some other serious bowel complaint may ensue.

Mr. Geo. Smith, Victoria, B.C., writes: "It is five years ago since I first tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I was then on a timber survey, and suffered greatly from diarrhoea, caused by change of diet, etc. A friend in the party gave me a few doses which gave me great relief. Since then I have been in survey work, and would as soon think of starting out on a trip without my compass and blankets as without my supply of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which I consider the woodsman's best friend."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for the past seventy years, and is universally known as a positive cure for all complaints arising from any looseness of the bowels.

When you ask for "Dr. Fowler's" be sure you receive what you ask for as there are many rank imitations of this sterling remedy placed on the market to try and fool the unsuspecting public.

The genuine is manufactured by The T. Milburn, Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

STOPPING THE WAR

It seemed an easy thing, a terribly easy thing, to start it, and to plunge the world into a conflict the proportions and possibilities of which still frighten and appall us. But to stop it is another matter, a matter beset on every side with difficulties and dangers past the ability of any man to reckon or set forth. Of course we don't mean the mere stopping of the war. Let it go long enough, and it will stop itself through the sheer exhaustion of the fighters. But to stop it intelligently, and in stopping it to remove out of the way the causes of international friction and bitterness in Europe, that if left will lead to another war just as sure as the sun shines, is a task, as it would seem, almost beyond the human wisdom and patience.

There are at least half a dozen tremendous problems in connection with the closing of the war, and to neglect any one of them will leave to germinate the seeds of future struggles. Merely smashing Germany will not solve one of them, even though we may hold that Germany will have to be smashed before she will help the other nations to solve them. And of the half-dozen problems we confess that we are not sure that we see the real and safe solution of one of them. And we are not sure that any other man does either.

Since the world began there never rested upon men such responsibility as will come upon the shoulders of the statesmen whose deliberations will bring this war to a close. If ever men needed wisdom, clear vision, patience and the grace of God, they will. And we are inclined to put the emphasis on the last named. In fact, we do not see much hope in the situation save as there will come into the thought and heart of the men who stop the war some special touch of the divine to enlighten and inspire and guide.

If there is one thing above all the others that the Christian world of today should pray for it is that illumination and grace should be given the statesmen of Europe today, that they should be able to forget the little, narrow things of their own nation and plan for the good of the world and the kingdom of God.

God in heaven have pity on the world if we stop the war in a spirit of selfishness and stupidity.—Christian Guardian.

TRADE WITH GERMANY

The idea of setting up a prohibitory tariff barrier with Germany after the war, fails to appeal to two classes of people, the free trader enthusiast, who sets his ideal above and before everything else, and the free trader, who is a selfish, short-sighted business man, who does not care to see his chance of personal profit from cheap German made articles go glimmering. We have some of both classes in the Dominion.

The first mentioned is comparatively speaking, harmless. He talks but doesn't do much else. The last mentioned group is a dangerous one. It does not talk much, but gets in its fine work with governments and is to be watched.

It seems inconceivable that anyone with a spark of real patriotism in their make-up should be willing to consider for a moment any idea of truck or trade with the Germans immediately after the war. If it were impossible for us to get along without doing business with the Huns, the situation would be different, and we might submit, with wry faces, but it is not impossible, for us to do very well without German trade; we have done without for more than two years now and have not suffered any rather we have gained.

As a matter of fact, the whole British empire before the war was depending altogether too much upon Germany for its good. It was that business sent away from home that enabled Germany to build up its big military and naval forces which for more than two years we have been fighting in order to save the freedom which the Hun is trying to wrest from it.

No trade with Germany after the war—long enough after at least to bring a new generation into business life—would be one of the finest things that could happen to the Empire. It might for a time lessen the big profits of the certain free traders of the for-revenue-only stamp, but it would result in a wonderful development of our wonderful resources. If we are to develop as we should as an Empire this is what we need, and in the end this course will prove far more profitable both to the Empire and individuals than would a resumption of the pre-war trade relations with the enemy.

IMPORTANCE OF CONSERVING FERTILITY OF SOIL

The soil is the one great factoral foundation not only of agriculture, but of the nation's warfare, hence it is practically impossible to spend an excess and care on its cultivation and preservation. Therefore any knowledge that results from experience is of the greatest value. A deal of information acquired from such experience in Bulletin No. 27 of the second series, entitled "Soil fertility, its economic maintenance and increase," just issued by the department of agriculture of which Frank T. Shutt, the Dominion chemist, is author, and which can be had free by application to the publications branch of the department at the capital. Dr. Shutt sounds an intensely practical note of warning when he argues that we have been terribly wasteful of plant food and that every effort should be made to maintain and increase the fertility of our soil, and, by more rational methods, endeavor to put a stop to that waste. While the warning is directed to the northwest, "where farming has been likened to mining," Ontario and Eastern Canada generally are summoned to account. In brief, a change is called for from extensive to intensive farming, the lesson that it is sought to convey being that there is more profit in high tillage and conservation than in methods of mere routine. Having gone minutely into the properties, necessary treatment and application of farmyard manures, the author supplies a table giving the approximate average composition of manure (fresh) from various animals, describes the manurial value of clover, the component elements and beneficial influence exercised by fertilizers, and refers to the places occupied by wood ashes and seaweed as potassic fertilizer. He also goes into the virtues of gypsum and nitrate of soda as indirect fertilizer, concluding in an instructive review of the chief means by which the productiveness of the soil may be increased and preserved, by urging farmers to make greater use of the various means and agencies provided by the governments—federal and provincial—"for the assistance of the man on the land, by information, advice and demonstration." "There is no country," he avows, "better provided than Canada in this respect." Regarding manure, two important facts to be remembered are that where it is not at once utilized by being put into the soil, or on to the soil, one third of its initial value is lost, and that the loss is least where the manure is compact and protected from rain.

"PHYSICALLY UNFIT" BADGE IS NOT RELISHED

The Ottawa Evening Free Press says: "Should a man who is physically unfit and who has been rejected for military service have to wear a button proclaiming to every one he meets that he is unfit?

"This question is being seriously taken up according to gossip among military men and weight of opinion among those with whom the Free Press has talked is against the idea. Opinions from civilians are almost wholly against it, and the scheme will not be set in operation in Ottawa.

"One prominent recruiting officer said that though it has been tried in Toronto with seeming success he was opposed to it partly on the grounds that it was so open for abuse.

"Another thing against it and the worst in his opinion was a button or badge with the words; "Tried and Rejected," or "Physically Unfit" inscribed on it would not be relished as a decoration for the wearer. To thus announce to his friends and to those who know him that he was not a fit subject would be the last thing in the world a man turned down would like to do."

KEEP THE BOWELS REGULAR AND AVOID CONSTIPATION.

When the bowels are not kept regular they become clogged up with waste and poisonous matter, causing constipation, biliousness, sick headaches, piles, and all kinds of liver troubles.

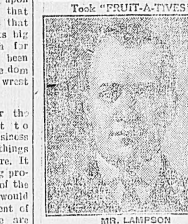

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you may have a free and easy motion every day. One pill every night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

Mr. John J. Smith, Elginburg, Ont., writes: "I had been troubled for a great while with constipation, and tried many different remedies which did me no good. I happened to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and I have found them most beneficial."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25 cents per vial, or five vials for $1.00; for sale at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BUY AT HOME

If in Wetaskiwin you are dwelling,
Just remember there's stores a-selling
The things that you are needing every day.
It's on you they are depending,
So there is no use your sending,
For them to stores in cities far away

It's really useless spending,
When out of town you're sending,
For the goods that you can buy at home as cheap.
It's a habit that's been tested,
And those who've thus invested,
Have found there is no benefit to reap.

You'll find it all confusing,
When the catalogue perusing,
That the out-of-town department store will send,
And the bargains you've selected,
Aren't just what you expected,
And your time and money's wasted in the end.

So at home do all your buying,
It's the plan most satisfying,
And it's one that I would recommend to you.
For there's never any grieving,
At the values you're receiving,
And it's worth a lot to buy what you can view.

It really is a pity,
If you trade outside the city,
Where you're getting all the getting that is good;
So take this humble warning,
And start out in the morning,
To help along our city as you should

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED GRAIN AND POTATOES FROM THE EXPERIMENTAL FARMS

By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution of superior sorts of grain and potatoes will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers. The samples for general distribution will consist of spring wheat (about 5 lbs) white oats (about 4 lbs), barley (about 5 lbs), and field peas (about 5 lbs). These will be sent out from Ottawa. A distribution of potatoes in samples of about 3 lbs. will be carried on from several of the experimental farms, the Central farm at Ottawa supplying only the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. All samples will be sent free by mail.

Only one sample of grain and one of potatoes can be sent to each farmer. As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early. Requests received after the end of December will probably be too late.

Anyone desiring a sample should write (post free) to the Dominion Cerealist, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, for an application blank.

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—Conductors and trainmen on passenger trains in Canada are now planning action for a new schedule which will increase the wages and decrease their hours of employment, according to information gathered from local railwaymen tonight. About fifty representatives of the Order of Railway Conductors and Order of Railway Trainmen already have been engaged in a two days session here, and it was learned tonight that possibly the conference will be extended until next week-end.

WAR SPIRIT OF THE FRENCH

When the history of the world war is written, the great part that the French have taken in the conflict will not be forgotten. As a nurse in the French hospital, Mrs. Stanley Jones, widow of the gallant major who fell at Zillebeke, has had a splendid opportunity to learn the spirit of the nation and the men who are the living embodiments of that spirit. And with here rests the responsibility of the statement that the French are determined to carry on the war with unshakable resolution until the banners of the Allies are crowned with victory.

In the past two years France has suffered cruelly. Her sacrifices in blood and treasure have been very heavy. Some of her lands are still defiled by the presence of the barbarian. More than one of her finest towns are in his merciless grip. All her youth and manhood are under arms. Yet France is more than ever resolved to persevere unflinchingly to the end.

That gallant nation has found her soul in the world war that was to accomplish her destruction. Nowhere was it thought that the French had such inexhaustible reserves of moral strength as two years of war have proved her to possess. But, after being cruelly battered by a brutal foe, France, as Mrs. Jones has said, is revealed to the world, regenerated, purged of dross, virile, enduring, capable of any sacrifice. Only one who has been in the very midst of that battle-scarred nation knows and can speak with authority of the soundness of heart that beats in France today.—Albertan.

HORSES IN THE WEST

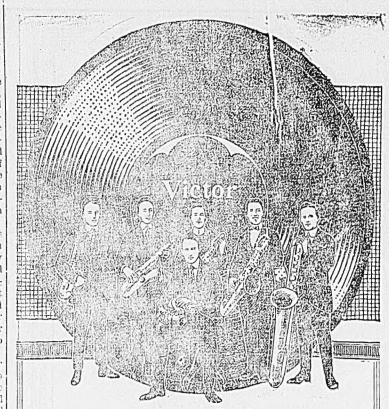

Canadian farmers do not appear to have fully grasped the situation with regard to horse breeding. The Canadian west, particularly Saskatchewan and Alberta, have had to import horses from eastern Canada quite heavily, and this is an expensive process, because eastern horses require a very considerable amount of acclimatizing in the west. The wastage of horses in the war, while it is not so great as when there are heavy cavalry charges, is very serious, and these horses will have to be replaced (good heavy horses cannot be produced in a day or a year.

From Ontario comes the report of Americans buying mares quite heavily. In that province, out of a shipment of 65 horses made from Toronto to New York recently, 2 per cent were females suitable for breeding. The American market is short of brood mares, and has been and will continue to buy quite freely in Canada. It is up to the Canadian farmers to see that this depletion of breeding stock is not carried to excess. In the west there is an abundance of feed and there is no reasonable excuse for all available mares not being bred.

A distressing accident occurred at the home of Widow Schneekerowski, west of Bashaw, last Thursday, when her little five year old daughter was burned so badly that she died the following day. The child's younger sister was playing with matches upstairs in the bedroom, and little Palma endeavored to take the matches away, when her own clothes were set on fire. Her screams brought her mother upstairs, but not before the child had received severe burns about the body and face. Dr. McLeod, of Ferintosh, was hastily summoned but the injuries were so severe that death ended the child's terrible sufferings the following day.

INEXHAUSTIBLE RESOURCES OF MIGHTY RUSSIA

Scenes of unsurpassed enthusiasm were witnessed in Petrograd when Britain declared war on Germany, in August, 1914. In one street, near the Nevski Prospekt, hundreds of people knelt in silent prayer, after giving one mighty shout, "Long live powerful England!"

The Czar himself addressed the Duma. He said that the great outburst of love of country and loyalty to the throne that had swept tempest like over the land was the warranty that Holy Russia would carry the war to the desired end. Then, amid scenes of unparelled fervor, raising his voice, the Czar shouted the phrase familiar to every Russian "Great is the God of the Russian land!"

Two or three days after this the first batches of peasant reservists were seen in Petrograd, marching gaily to the clash of cymbals and tambourines. Some from the remote provinces were still wearing their birch-bark shoes, and even last winter's sheepskins. Billeting took place all over Petrograd. Troops in scores of thousands were distributed among public buildings and private dwellings. Everyone was delighted to receive the soldier lads, and gifts of food and tobacco was showered on them.

Martial law was proclaimed and liquor shops were closed so that the recruits should not spend their kit-allowance, and, in a flash, the whole daily and nightly life of Petrograd was turned topsy-turvy.

The Russian empire is indeed impressive. It extends from within a few hundred miles of our own British shores eastward almost exactly halfway round the globe, to within sight of the very shores of North America and takes up no less than one-seventh of the land surface of the entire world. In other words, with its 8,417,118 square miles of territory, the Russian is the second largest empire in existence; the British Empire alone with its thirteen million odd square miles, absorbing one-fifth of the whole earth's surface, occupying the position of honor in this respect.

The British Empire also has, nominally, the largest population. But in a great European war sense, Russia has easily the practical advantage, for of her total of 180 millions in Europe and Asia, over 150 million may be counted as white men. Of the enormous total population of 434 millions of the British Empire, however, only sixty millions can be counted as white, the rest being composed of various colored people.

What is more, Russia's population is growing at an enormous rate, and we have centenarians among us who were alive when the population of the Russian empire, instead of being about 130 millions, was only 45 millions. For such were the figures of Waterloo, 1815.

When the present European struggle began, it was estimated that Russia had of an age and fitness for service well over thirty millions of men. Even keeping back a few millions of these for munitions, transport and other necessary work, she alone without counting the allies, has still available for the field of battle, far more men than the German Empire and Austria-Hungary put together, with Bulgaria and Turkey thrown in, can place there.

Russia, in fact, has not called upon a fifth of her available forces. If numbers count for anything, she alone ought easily to be able to annihilate the Huns and all their assistants. The actual figures as to her reserves of men are really more astounding than those already given.

For Russian women, not in isolated instances, but in the mass, are accustomed to accomplishing masculine duties. There are women doctors in thousands, and also women merchants, smiths, bricklayers, and hod-carriers, and, in some instances, even soldiers up to the rank of colonel. Most remarkable of all in this great agricultural land, the women are as good at farming as the men.

This ability of the Russian woman to perform man's work has the effect of almost doubling the enormous number of Russian efficients of which the figures have already been given. If the German empire were thrice its present size and power it would be unable to overcome a country like Russia, organized as it is on the basis of female as well as of male labor, and with an enormous agricultural population living in farms and isolated tiny villages.

Here it may be well to remember that the Russian navy, compared with what it was a few years ago, is a magnificent collection of fighting ships. Owing to her geographical situation, and her seas being so widely separated from each other, Russia is obliged to maintain four distinct fleets.

The Baltic fleet now comprises some dozen formidable battleships, most of them dreadnoughts, besides armored and other cruisers, over seventy destroyers, and about twelve submarines.

Not quite so strong as her Baltic fleet, but still powerful, is the Black Sea fleet, with its dozen battleships of somewhat less average size—although three of them are dreadnoughts—than those in the Baltic, and their due complement of smaller craft of every kind. The Pacific fleet is mostly made up of destroyers and submarines, and the Caspian flotilla consists of gunboats and similar craft.

The Russians now possess some wonderful ice-breaking craft, and the fact is that the Cronstadt, which now guards the entrance to the port of Petrograd, can no longer be considered ice-bound.

As to population, although Russia contains nineteen towns with populations of over one million—the figures for Petrograd in 1910 were 2,073,000,—and there are many towns of smaller sizes, it is an amazing fact that of villages of Russia with populations of under one hundred souls there are over half a million.

The immense agricultural resources of this wonderful country can further be gauged from the fact that in 1913 it contains of cattle 51 million of horses 33 million, and of sheep and goats no less than 73 millions. No wonder Germany is suffering from scarcity! The closing of Russian sources of supply alone to her makes all the difference between plenty and semi-starvation. She depended upon Russia for cheap agricultural laborers, for grain for human consumption, for horses and cattle, and, in particular, for fodder for the German cattle.

As to raw materials for munitions, Russia is indeed self-contained. She even produces the much sought for cotton. She already has over a million acres of the precious material under cultivation, and is contemplating millions of acres more. As for petrol, the Russian wells at Baku are one of the great sources of the world's supply. In the eatables line, Russia can also supply all the oil she needs, and as much sugar from beets of her own growing as her vast population can consume, and more.

It is thus evident that Russia herself can now, if she could not before, produce the metals and other raw materials she needs for the manufacture of weapons and munitions of all kinds.

Certainly, owing to the treachery of German works directors and others of Hun proclivities, Russia was terribly hampered at first in the production of munitions by all sorts of mysterious "accidents" and other hindrances. But the Hun proprietor and manager are no longer there—Russian firing parties and hangmen could tell you something of their disappearance—and everything is now going on swimmingly under all-Russian supervision.

Russia, as a matter of fact, has several millions of trained industrial and munition workers, and in this respect is better off than any of the other belligerents, even the Huns. Nor are these workers of the barbarous, uneducated type so many non-Russians imagine. Education has been spreading like wild-fire in Russia for decades. Of university and high school students and professors there are hundreds of thousands of them in Russia, huge numbers of them with the highest engineering and other technical qualifications. Also there are some ten million Russian children in the elementary schools, and, contrary to the popular idea, the savage Cossacks are among the best educated Russians there are. Russian soldiers are splendidly clothed and equipped and nearly everything they carry is made in Russia.

From a rifle or box of scientific or surgical instruments to a 17 in. gun or an armored train, Russia can now produce practically everything she requires.

PLAY BALL

Shut up the shop; forget your cares,
Let foolish business wait,
The baseball crowd already throngs
In through the grandstand gate.
Already on the white lined field,
The men of baseball fame,
Are lithely loosening their limbs,
Before the glorious game,
On right and left, and centre field,
The long sky ticklers fall,
And soon the umpire's due to shout
The thrilling words "Play Ball!"

Play Ball! The magic words will ring
And echo through your soul,
As strains of old-time melodies,
Reverberate and roll;
They bring dreams of life and youth
They thrill with all the jot,
You knew so many years ago,
And you're again a boy.
A boy again your tasks and trials,
Forgotten one and all,
Dispelled like mists before the sun,
By those two words, Play Ball!

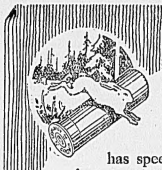

Once more upon the white lined field
Await your turn at bat,
Ah, turns were few and far between
I well remember that.
Again, run, shout, do two men's work,
Until the fading day,
Strew'd shadows on the springy grass
So thick you couldn't play.
Youth, life, hope and also health,
You must have passed them all,
Upon that road unless you thrill
With those two words, Play Ball!

ALBERTA AGAIN FIRST IN THE RECRUITING

Ottawa, Sept. 11—Recruiting for August totalled 7,246, as compared with 8,675 for July; 10,796 for June; 15,090 for May and 32,819 for the record month of March. The falling off in recruiting for August is about what was expected by the militia department, considering all the circumstances of increased labor demand, harvest requirements, etc.

The total number of recruits since the outbreak of the war has now reached a total of 351,695, of whom 153,785 were enlisted since January 1 last.

Alberta took the lead last month among the military districts in regard to recruits. The province provided 1,155 new soldiers. To date the total for Alberta since the outbreak of the war is 34,885. Ontario supplied last month 2,548 recruits, of which the Toronto military district enlisted 985. London district enlisted 576 and Kingston district 991. Quebec province recruited 620 men; the maritime provinces 569; Manitoba and Saskatchewan 451, and British Columbia 628.

Had Weak Back and Kidneys.
COULD HARDLY MOVE IN BED.

When the back becomes weak and starts to ache and pain it is a sure sign that the kidneys are not performing their functions properly.

On the first sign of backache Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken and serious kidney troubles prevented.

Mr. Francis McInnes, Woodbine, N.S. writes: "I deem it my duty to let you know the wonderful results I have received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. For a long time I had been suffering from weak back and kidneys. I used to suffer the most at night, and sometimes could hardly move in bed with the pain. I could do no hard labor on account of my back. A friend advised me to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial, and I am glad I did for the pain in my kidneys is gone; my back is strong, and I can perform any hard labor and get my good night's sleep. I only used three boxes of the pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25; at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

STATISTICS OF THE WORLD'S CROP OF WHEAT, OATS AND BARLEY

The total crop of all wheat as indicated by our reports it approximately 628,000,000 bushels, says the annual crop report of the Continental and Commercial National Bank o Chicago, dated September 4. Last year it was 1,011,000,000; the production being 62 per cent of last year and the smallest wheat crop since 1911. To the wheat grower it is a calamitous yield, though offset partly by the higher priced market, and to the country it brings increased cost of living, and less of a much needed exportable commodity. The domestic need is 625 million bushels, or the entire crop. The carry-over from the large yield of last year was unusually big, the reported volume of wheat on farms and in trade channels being 145 million bushels, and this suggests a surplus of 150 million bushels for export, the export last year was 240 million bushels, the previous year 339 million bushels High prices may increase the exports and decrease the home consumption, but the advance in price will not yield the country the monetary value of last year's exports—$32,000,000 in grain and flour.

The world's harvests of wheat last season were the largest of record at a total estimate of 4,127 million bushels. Of the countries harvesting thus far in the year the loss is over eight hundred million bushels. Europe never raises its bread supply and in the coming twelve months the importers will be hard pressed to meet the demands of the accessible countries even at the reduced consumption that is apt to follow unusually high prices. As the surplus of this country will be in great demand our prices will be high in conformity with the world's shortage. Only two important wheat raising states of the Union hold up to their former records—Nebraska and Pennsylvania. In every other section where wheat is produced in considerable quantities, the acreage and yield were curtailed by rains, frost, heat, drought, and plant disease.

The oats acreage was on all fours with a year ago, due to the abandoned acreage of winter wheat and the comparatively small labor involved in reseeding the fields with this grain. The yield was cut short by the hot weather that developed over the principal states at the filling period too. The estimate of 1,247 million bushels is the third largest crop raised in this country, and will help towards supplying the deficiency of all other grains. The crop is practically secured, and there is a large carry-over from last season when the estimate was 1,540 million bushels, but much of this was unavailable on account of the damage from heavy rain at harvest time. Export demand for oats has increased since the war, and the indications are that there is plenty for this purpose. The market is naturally strong by reason of the relatively higher prices of wheat and

In the production of barley there is a lessened yield, the acreage being smaller, and the same conditions which reduced wheat operating on this grain which matures at the same time. The principal barley producer is California and the very dry season in the south half of that state cut very deeply into the yield. The estimate is for a yield of 187 million bushels compared with 237 million bushels last year. This yield is about the average of recent years.

COULD NOT SLEEP
Nerves Were So Bad.

To the thousands of people who are tossing on sleepless beds night after night, and to whose eyes sleep will not come, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer the blessing of sound, refreshing slumber, because they restore the equilibrium of the deranged nerve centres, thus restoring strength and vitality to the whole system.

Mr. Arthur McCutcheon, Mt. Pisgah, N.B., writes: "I have been much troubled with my nerves, and could not sleep for hours after I would go to bed. I would toss and turn from one side to the other before I could go to sleep. I would then wake up in the night, and lie awake a long time before I would get to sleep again. I thought I would try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, as they were recommended so highly. I now get to sleep without any trouble; my nerves seem quieted, and when I lie down I go to sleep quickly. Anyone who is troubled with their nerves should keep a box on hand."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25; at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RESEARCH WORK IN THE WEST

Now that it is desirable, more than ever before, to know just what the resources of Canada are, and in what measure they may be depended upon for permanent supply, the West is receiving an increased amount of attention as a source of a good many things that are likely soon to be in demand. These provinces between the Great Lakes and the Pacific are to be not only a breadbasket for the world, but a storehouse of industrial wealth and a solution of scientific problems in which all the world is interested. Our contribution to the world's welfare once estimated only in terms of acres and wheat promises to be a much greater and more varied thing.

Research is the word today. The force of events is driving us to a study of ourselves and our country, and we shall be learning presently what it would have been well for us if we had known sooner. It will be a kind of national stock-taking for the next ten or fifteen years, the object of which will be to find out what we have, where it is, and how it can be made use of. "Save Canada First," is to be not a tourist slogan only, but an industrial motto, and here in the West we shall be hearing things about our own prairie and mountain country that will probably surprise even ourselves.

Already there is a new activity in the mining districts of British Columbia; developments are under way in the north of Alberta that even at this stage have an imperial interest, and the possibilities of the new mineral fields of northern Manitoba will point in the same direction. Every prospector meanwhile helps make our Canadian geography more really complete.

The research of our mineral resources is one important phase of the question. But there are also our chemical and hydro-electric resources which the war has shown to be matters of vital concern; there is the question of by-products; there is the fascinating problem of conservation, and more or less closely connected with all of these is the investigation of markets and the establishment of trade relations. It is quite true that work had begun in these several directions before the war with a view to utilizing the natural resources of Canada in a larger and more profitable way; but the opportunities and necessities have been made much more apparent in the past twenty-four months, and a stimulus has been given to all kinds of research work that can hardly be restricted.

It is a sign of the times, and very good business too, that the Canadian Pacific railway should be announcing itself in to search itself with plans for investigating, through scientific agencies, the potential wealth of Canada as a mineral producer, particularly referring to some of the new minerals and mineral byproducts now just coming into demand. If Lord Shaughnessy will turn some of his organization upon that important work he will do his country an undoubted service.

The value of the Dominion geographical survey becomes more apparent, too, at a time like this. For years it has been carrying on a work that to many people has seemed to be a somewhat academic and professional work, but which is now being recognized as immensely practical. It has found out a tremendous amount of useful information about all parts of Canada, and each year has presented a report that might well have been read and acted upon more generally. A good proportion of this research work has been done in the west, last year, for instance, its activities included an investigation of the ore deposits in the Beaver Lake district or northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan; a geological exploration of the Churchill River country; a report upon the silver finds on Lake Athabasca; investigations of the coal deposits in several parts of the west; an examination of the underground water supply in southern Alberta; studies of the geological formations in the Crow's Nest and Kootenay region; a mapping of the silver-lead and zinc deposits near Cranbrook; a geological investigation of an area on the Stewart River, Yukon; paleontological investigations in Rocky Mountain Park; further investigations in the dinosaurian fossil beds in central Alberta; and a great amount of topographical work in all the provinces.

PROTECTION OF GAME

Judging from the rate at which the wild creatures of North America are now being destroyed, fifty years hence there will be no game left inCanada or the United States, outside of rigidly protected game preserves.

It is the duty of every good citizen to promote the protection of forests and wild life and the creation of game preserves, while a supply of game remains.

Every man who finds pleasure in hunting should be willing to spend both time and money in active work for the protection of forests, fish and game.

In the settled regions of this continent there is no real necessity for the consumption of wild game as human food.

The highest purpose which the killing of wild game and game fishes can hereafter be made to serve is in furnishing objects to overworked men for tramping and camping trips in the wild.—Conservation.

UNCLE EZRA INVESTS IN A COW

Bought a cow t'other day,
Man was getting short o'hay.
Rather sell his wife, he said,
Or part with anything he had,
But his hay was getting low;
And the cow had got to go.
"Such a cow," says he to me,
"Is something that you seldom see;
Gives two pails twice a day,
Only eating medder hay.
Give her shorts and cottonseed,
Another pail you'll surely need.
Butter that 'ere cow will make,
Can't be beat in all the State.
Her mother took first money at
The Monroe fair for butter-fat."
I shared him ten and took the cow,
Wish I hadn't done it now.
Felt like I'd been stealing sheep,
'Cause I got that cow so cheap.
Of course it wa'nt exactly right,
To take advantage of his plight.
But turn it round and I could see
That he would do the same to me.
I took her home and gave her feed
Of ensilage and cottonseed.
Could hardly wa't for milking time
So as to try that cow of mine.
I won't attempt to express my thoughts,
But all I got was just three quarts.
Yet he told the truth when, says he
A cow like this you seldom see.
For her bag was bigger when I got done,
Than it was when I had begun.
But strip and strip it was no use,
There wasn't another drop of juice.
Next cow I buy I will not fail
To inquire the size of the milking pail.

FURTHER HARVEST LEAVE FOR SOLDIERS

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Strong pressure has been brought by military men not to grant leave, as it has interfered and is seriously interfering with training and entailing large expense, but in deference to urgent requests from the west it has been decided to permit further extensions of harvest leave by officers commanding districts to troops not warned for overseas service where actual need exists Representations received indicate high wages are being paid in the west and it has been decided that while further extensions may be granted up to October 20, such will be granted without pay or allowances. Camp commandants have been notified as above, and applications should be made to them. Numerous complaints have been received that men on leave are not actually employed, and it is hoped that this will be remedied by the conditions attached to further extension.

SMART

Farmer (to Brown, who, wanting to do his bit, gave up a holiday to help on the land): Well, Brown, did you put the fowls up all right for the night?

"Yes, sir, I had some trouble with the ducks; the first one fell off the roost, but I put it between two hens the second time and made it stick."

General News

Winnipeg, Sept. 9.—A record price for a wheat crop has just been paid to George Frank, ex-reeve of St. Clements, and a well known farmer. Mr Frank received $3.64 a bushel for his entire crop, grown at East Selkirk. Mr. Frank had almost exactly 100 acres of wheat on this farm and it ran 25 bushels to the acre, and graded No. 1 Northern. He was paid a bonus more than Winnipeg spot prices by the milling company for his crop.

That western farmers who have given seed grain liens to the government and have not discharged their indebtedness shall be given until the 30th of June next year, to pay up, and after that date the holder of a mortgage on the property may pay off the lien and add the amount to the mortgage at the named rate of interest was the unanimous vote of a conference held under the auspices of the Calgary board of trade to go into the whole matter of seed grain liens.

In his story, "Two Bags of Wild Ducks" in the September number of Rod and Gun, which is now on the news-stands, Bonnycastle Dale, the naturalist writer and contributor to many Canadian as well as American journals, compares shooting with the gun to shooting with the camera. "Duck Days on Gilt Meadows" describes another shooting expedition in British Columbia. "A Bit of Selkirk Bush" is a humorous sketch of an expedition in the Selkirks, while "With Rod in the Forests of Quebec" tells something about the good hunting and fishing that is to be had in that province. The magazine for September is replete with stories of interest to the lover of outdoors and the special departments are also of particular interest. This representative Canadian sportsmen's magazine is published at Woodstock by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

The Fletcher Music Method

The Fletcher Music Demonstration held on Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Wright was a real success. She referred in glowing terms to the clear-headed Canadian girl, the originator of the method, and to the universal aspect of the method itself. In closing she gave ten reasons why any child from five to fifteen, should begin lessons in a F.M.M. class, and illustrated each reason by means of her teaching paraphernalia, which was on exhibit; also by incidents in her own experience in teaching the method. Mrs. Wright asked Miss Kelley to play some very clever compositions by children of seven and nine child learns to express his own musyears, illustrating the point that the ical thoughts in the F.M.M. class.

Mr. and Mrs. Francois Adam, of Camrose, will celebrate their silver wedding today. Mr. Adam is from Dinant, Belgium, where his family has held estates many years. Mrs. Adam is also of Belgian birth. They were married on September 7, 1891, in the church of Duhamel settlement on Battle river, a few miles south of Camrose, where Mr. Adam was a merchant at the time. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Beillevaire, then and now parish priest at Duhamel, who will attend the celebration. London, Sept. 9.—Three million dollars worth of cured meats, hams and pork for the French army, to be delivered from November to March, is the nice order just won by the Canadian packing firm of P. Burns & Co. of Calgary, in competition with the largest Chicago firms. There is also a large chilled beef order for the same firm, although the particulars cannot be disclosed yet. It is estimated that it will take 350,000 hogs to fill the first contract.

When you advertise in The Times you know you are placing your announcement where it will do most good—that is, bring most business.

The World's Markets

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Assertions that a heavy defeat had been suffered by the Bulgarians in Macedonia acted as a weight today on the wheat market here. The outcome was an unsettled close, 2¾ to 3¾ net lower with December at 151 and May at 151¾ to ¾. Other leading commodities sharedin the decline—corn 1 to 1¼; oats ¼ to 1c and provisions 2¾ to 25c.

Bears had control of the wheat market throughout the session and were able to prevent any important rallies. In the last hour especially, many halvings were sacrificed on automatic stop-loss orders to sell. The failure of the Liverpool market to respond to yesterday's advance here gave an unexpected advantage to the bears at the start, but telling did not assume unusual proportions until after dispatches were at hand telling of huge losses by the Bulgarians in a battle lasting 37 hours. The obvious inference was that the victory for the Anglo-French allies meant improved chances of the opening of the Dardanelles, and perhaps, implied the speedier establishment of a rail route for Roumanian and Russian supplies to reach the Mediterranean. Slackening of milling and export demand for wheat tended further to discourage the bulls. The falling-off in the call from domestic millers was particularly noticeable on account of the fact of the difficulties arising in Great Britain from the English milling operatives' strike, which seemed to be growing more acute.

Corn values eased down owing largely to continued favorable weather for the ripening of the crop. Field reports from Nebraska especially were for the most part optimistic. Oats fell with corn and wheat. Sales of five hundred bushels to exporters failed to prove much of an offset.

DRY ALBERTA EMPTIES JAILS

Word comes from Lethbridge that the provincial jail farm is failing, failing as compared with previous years, because there is not enough jail help. This condition has been gradually coming about by reason of changes since the prohibition act passed. Undoubtedly the change is due to the enactment of that bill in a very large measure.

"When Warden Rivers, of the provincial jail, was helping in the fight for dry legislation in Alberta," says the Lethbridge Herald, commenting on the jail conditions, "he probably never thought that he was storing up a labor shortage for himself. But that is just what he did. His 'farm hands' are melting away, and he sees visions of himself going into the harvest fields and pitching grain with a fork in an effort to get the crop to safety. It looks serious for the warden."

A year ago the Lethbridge provincial jail averaged between 150 and 175 prisoners. Things were booming The jail had plenty of farm help. The crops were large When the financial returns came in last fall it was discovered that the jail farms had turned out $20,000 worth of produce.

Hon. J. A. MacLean, working in connection with Warden Rivers saw a bright future ahead of the jail farms and this spring they purchased 240 acres more land, making eight hundred acres in all in the jail tract They thought that by giving the boys' outdoor exercise they would be earning their keep and helping to reduce the expenses of the institution besides greatly benefitting themselves.

Then came July 1. Things went swimmingly for a while. Then, one by one, sometimes two or three a day, the 'farm hands' started to leave. Their terms were up. But there were no more coming to take their places. The police courts and dragnets seemed to be doing a poor business. Those who did come along were old, broken down persons who would just as soon live in a neat, well-kept jail as not. It was a case of "everything going out and nothing coming in." And it isn't getting any different.

Dr. Rivers confessed that his force was down to 65 men and dwindling fast.

HAD NEVER SEEN CREAM

The times through woich we are passing have caused many a man to change his views, admits the Cincinnati Enquirer. They had this effect on an East Side milkman who decided to become honest:

On the third morning he was taken aback when he called for the payment of his weekly bill and a customer began to shriek at him.

"You needn't come me any longer, and I'm not going to pay you for the last two days."

"Why, what's the trouble?" he inquired anxiously.

"Trouble, indeed! When the milk you left yesterday and the day before stood a couple of hours, there was a nasty thick scum on it."

And it took him half an hour to explain what cream was.

EXPENSIVE PEACE

Uncle Sam has not done much real fighting along the Mexican border, says the Chicago News, but already his little expedition there has cost him about $130,000,000, with every prospect of a doubling of that amount before it was over with. What would he have to pay for a real war?
